

Another Rush Of Immigrants.

Tuesday witnessed the beginning of another prolonged rush of immigrants to Western Canada, the first contingent of which arrived at Winnipeg at 10:30 on the first section of No. 1 train from the east. A number of the Atlantic liners will land this week, and with those that have reached Canadian ports during the last week, the quota of new-comers who will reach the west within the next few days, will be reckoned in no small numbers. Another boatload of Salvator Army immigrants who crossed this morning on one of the special steamers chartered by the company, will soon be due to reach Winnipeg as the boat was due to land on June 30, and accordingly the passengers should be in the west at least tomorrow. They will be met and looked after by the army officials and will at once proceed to various points where arrangements have already been made for them to commence work.

The immigrants are chiefly of Scotch and English descent, and are the first contingent of a large number of old country arrivals who are due to arrive within the next ten days. At least two hundred were on the first section of Tuesday morning's train, and many of them left for the west. In fact, one of the noticeable facts regarding the arrival of a large proportion of the immigrants who come to the country is that, in many instances, they have secured passage to their exact place of destination without the usual stopping off in Winnipeg.

Fireman Run Down.

Brookville, June 27.—Walter Witte a G.T.R. fireman, was instantly killed at the Union station after being struck by his boarding house when he was run down.

Big Increase In Capital.

Ottawa, June 27.—The Census and Statistics Department issued a bulletin today on the capital employed in manufacturing in Canada. In 1905 the total was $348,901,178 compared with $449,916,187 in 1904, an increase of 90 per cent. in five years. Production has only increased about fifty per cent. due to the recently established works being unable to produce to their fullest capacity.

Three Hanged.

Jefferson City, June 27.—Harry Vaughan, Ed. Raymond and Geo. Ryan were hanged here today for the killing of prison guard John Clay during an attempt to escape.

Struck By Lightning.

New York, June 27.—The daughter of J. A. McKinnon of Newark was killed by lightning which struck a tree under which she had taken refuge from the storm yesterday. The whole district around the city was swept after a day of sweltering heat and much damage was done. Four churches in the city were struck and the steeples shattered.

Berks on Strikes.

New York, June 27.—Robert W. Parks, M.P., left today for England on the Celtic. He is head of the company which proposes to build the Georgian Bay canal. He says if the Dominion government would adopt the scheme the canal could be finished in four years at a cost of $100,000,000. He says the frequent strikes of America are economic barbarism and there is no necessity for them. He says he has employed 32,000 men on various works in England and South Africa and never had a strike.

Moroccan Army Cut Up.

Paris, June 27.—A telegram to the Petit Journal from Oren says that the troops of the Sultan of Morocco have been surrounded at Marrakech by the victorious army of the Pretender. The Sultan's camp, which contained three hundred women and children, was surrounded by the Sultan's army, and the Sultan and his commander-in-chief, Muley Ismael, and two of the principal Kaidis were killed. The troops of the Sultan are believed to have been almost annihilated.

A cable to the Martin from Sidid-Ahmed, gives the following details: Heavy firing was kept up nearly the whole day. The Sultan's camp was pillaged and the courage was frightful. The remainder of the Sultan's force is wedged in between Mar Chien and the sea and cannot escape.

According to a Tanager telegram to the Temps, the soldiers of the Garrison at Casablanca have mutinied and refused to their pay, being in arrears. They attempted to seize the merchandise at the Custom's House, but were quiet on receiving their pay.

Fire Underwriters Meet.

Toronto, June 27.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association is being held at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls. Perhaps the most interesting matter to be discussed is the situation in Winnipeg where the supply of water is said to be so low that an effort may be made to raise the rates there. An effort likewise will be made to make it possible in framing policies to exclude liabilities for damages that are the direct result of earthquakes.

London Despatch.

London, June 27.—A New Zealand despatch states that it was announced at the opening of parliament that the imperial government had consented on the advice of the King to raise the status of New Zealand to that of the Dominion of New Zealand. The despatch also announced that traffic treaties were being negotiated with Canada and South Africa. The House of Commons yesterday, Sir Edward Grey said that no understanding had as yet been arrived at with the United States government respecting the Newfoundland fisheries question.

"We can talk preference until the crack of doom," said Chas. Moore, M.P., "but the Canadian manufacturer will, blindly rely on continuing to exist, to a British preferential tariff high enough to protect himself. The Can. h. manufacturer, who is not a British manufacturer, has got it, and has not the slightest intention of letting us in the Dominion."

Choked And Thrown In River.

Pargo, N. D., June 27.—Little Grace Burns, aged 15 years, who mysteriously disappeared from her home on Front Street last Friday morning was the victim of a most heinous crime, which resulted in her death. After three days of a search in which the relatives of the girl were assisted by the police of Fargo and Moorhead, the body of the missing girl was discovered in the muddy waters of the Red River by two men who shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon. That the girl was foully murdered there is no doubt, according to doctors Humphreys and Arty who performed a post-mortem examination on the girl's body this afternoon. The skull was badly fractured above the left ear, and there is every indication that she was choked into unconsciousness and her body into the river.

Incendiarism Suspected.

(Special to The Chronicle) Belleville, Ont., June 28.—A fire at the municipal gas plant yesterday did damage to the extent of $30,000. There was bad blood between some of the employees and the new manager because the latter engaged help from the outside, and it is thought one of the disaffected men started the fire out of spite.

Baseball.

EDMONTON BADLY BEATEN

The Edmonton team made a poor showing last evening against the boys from Medicine Hat. Medicine Hat, their pitcher, was out of form. The batting was poor and the fielding worse. And on top of that their luck was bad. Medicine Hat's pitcher, Hollis, played a good steady game and was well supported. Mc-Guisken through a mistake called the game when only two of the Capitals were out in the eighth and in consequence the eighth inning does not count, and the score goes on record as 2-2 instead of 12-1.

The Hatters got one run in the first and two in the fifth making 2-0. In the sixth each team scored two, and while the Capitals did nothing in the seventh, Medicine Hat got 3. Then in the eighth McLean went to pieces and was replaced by Grimes, but it was all the same to the south-erners, who added 7. Edmonton got three men home, and with two out the umpire called the game. Edmonton . . . 0 0 0 0 2 3-8 Medicine Hat . . . 1 0 0 0 2 3-8

Baptist Minister Expelled.

Toronto, June 27.—The Rev. D. M. Coulman, formerly pastor of a Baptist church in St. Catharines, has been expelled from the ministry by the Baptist council. The resolution was passed at a meeting at which charges of immorality were preferred against Mr. Coulman, and at which he was summarily deposed, which disavows him of the right of ever again holding a position as an ordained minister. Coulman has been in Toronto not been preaching but has been interested in mining stocks and doing business in Toronto.

Five Burned To Death.

(Special to The Chronicle)

Ottawa, June 27.—Fire started in a steam laundry at Arnprior and so quickly burned the building that one woman and four children were burned to death. The husband rushed out on seeing the alarm to get some water to put the fire out, which he thought was a small one, but a gasoline explosion followed quickly and the family was lost in the flames. The cause of the family is Armstrong and he was manager of the laundry. Damage to the extent of $1,000 was done before the fire could be checked. The fire started in the dryer room at the rear of the building. The laundry was completely destroyed. The occupants of the block were P. C. Furberman, butcher shop and clothing store, and Hamilton and Sewitt Knitting Company's factory in an upper story over the butcher shop. Both were completely gutted but the lower part suffered only from the water. The machinery in the factory will be considerably damaged by water.

Conservative Convention.

Indian Tried To Escape

An Indian named Villio, who is serving a term at the Edmonton penitentiary for horse stealing, made a daring dash for liberty yesterday afternoon. He was employed with a gang of other convicts on a brick yard which is being built and suddenly slipped into the thick shrub which the ground is covered. The guard heard him, but it was useless to fire with his rifle into the dense shrub. He therefore ran to the next guard, gave the alarm, and set off after the fugitive armed with his revolver. After a difficult chase he came up with his man near the road, held him up, and brought him back. The mounted men had in the meantime been called out, but their services were not required.

(Special to The Chronicle)

Patrick Burns, wholesale and retail cattle dealer, of Calgary, a witness at the beef enquiry at Quebec, stated that he had a large number of buyers purchasing cattle for his business and had never had any difficulty in procuring all the cattle he required. When asked as to how he gauged prices, Mr. Burns stated that when prices were high he fixed his price according to the old country market, but when prices were low he fixed them at what he thought was fair to bring. Cattle had brought per lb. good prices last year.

Looks Like Trouble.

(Special to The Chronicle)

Vancouver, June 28.—Owing to the arbitrary construction placed upon the custom laws at Slagway by the United States officials, the steamer Harvard is tied up with a consignment of P. Burns & Co's cattle. The officials say no more Canadian cattle will be allowed to land unless accompanied by a satisfactory certificate of health inspection from United States officials. The wires to Washington are being kept busy, and in the meantime Mr. Burns & Co. are anxious to know what their position is.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The following from the Winnipeg Tribune expresses exactly our view of the attitude of the papers in the east toward the west—

"Interviewed at Montreal the other day, Mr. J. J. Hill is reported to have said in reply to the usual question about his prospective 'invasion of Canada':

"Invasion is nonsense. Our lines are reaching out to get a share of business which cannot be handled by your lines, which will not be all handled for years to come, by any number of lines. I can make considerable profit as to the future, as the western part of Canada. You can and you will have a population of twenty millions in time. You have the most and largest what belt in the world. There is business there for all. We have only got to the fringe of things in the west."

"It is surprising how little the newspapers of the east really know of the west. They publish columns of reports and correspondence concerning western development, but they seem to be unable to appreciate the fact that the running of a new railway through this country means 'invasion' and no injury to the business of existing lines."

"The railways we have now cannot handle the business that offers—and by the time those under construction and planned are completed, the demands on the country will compel serious consideration of the construction of others."

"In the west there is no opposition to this invasion by the Hill lines. In the west it is impossible for the people to understand how any of the existing roads could be alarmed by the prospect of 'invasion.' In the West there is only one feature of the 'invasion' that is causing the people uneasiness—and that is its long delay in being carried out."

"The Hill lines will cost the country nothing. The country is waiting for them and needs them. Space has been purchased and cleared for their Winnipeg terminals—and now it is up to Mr. Hill to rush them in and give us the transportation facilities that are so impatiently waited while he reaps a great profit by taking advantage of a field that he has given evidence of appreciating."

"Mr. Hill, the board is waiting. It is your move."

That word "invasion" is a ready one on the lips of the Ontario journalists when speaking of the investment of United States capital in this country in either navigable or railway enterprises.

A former news editor of the Toronto News and a live journalist gave us once upon a time several large assignments under that head and we had the presumption to wonder at the wording, much to his consternation, but he subsequently saw the force of our contention and abandoned the use of the invasion phrase.

Your Uncle Samuel is a business gent and a good fellow. He will sell you wooden nutmegs and huswoggers and clean you out at poker and will then loan you the price of your transportation home, but he is not in the invasion business except in that term may be applied to his legitimate business ventures.

Many of the leading manufacturing concerns in Ontario, as we pointed out recently, are owned by citizens of the United States and a large portion of the rich mines of the Cobalt district are owned in the same way and no one talks of invasion in connection with them. The fact simply is that there is a large amount of money in the railway business in Canada, and that enterprising Canucks, who have become one of the greatest railway magnates on the continent, want a piece of it, and we are much mistaken in the man if he doesn't get it, and it will be for the benefit of western Canada that he should.

HOW THE LAW MAY PREVENT RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

(Sensational American.)

The president of one of our leading railroads who has risen to his present position by steady advancement from the ranks, recently told the writer that in a last analysis of the causes of railroad accidents, he was convinced on a review of his long experience, that it was to be found in the lack of discipline, the disposition to play fast and loose with established rules. In proof of this, he cited the fact that as the result of a journey which he had recently taken through Europe, during which he investigated the signal systems on several of the roads which have shown a remarkably immunity from accident, he was surprised to find in how many cases these systems were inferior to those which were installed on some of the leading American roads, including his own. And yet, in spite of superior protective appliances, the list of casualties was much larger on our roads in proportion to the number of passenger cars run. The question of the enforcement of discipline by the strict imposition of penalties was rendered difficult, according to this authority, by the action of the various labor unions, who often demanded the protection of employees (a real perfectly proper when concerned with discipline) to establish rules which, if they were to be enforced, would have the effect of depriving the management of the right to punish. It would happen, in cases in which the management was prepared to fight out a contested case on a point of principle, that an intimation would be quickly conveyed from Wall street, to the effect that under no conditions was it advisable to be prosecuted at least for the time being. Without entering into the merits of the case as to these intimations, it is certain that such a condition of things is full of frightful menace to the safety of the traveling public. The question of discipline may well be asked, whether some higher power may not be invoked to deal with the situation. Such an opportunity is, of course, presented when accidents involving the death and injury of the passengers or employees occur, and a case has recently been brought to our notice in which the criminal negligence of an employee was visited with immediate and severe punishment and steps were taken to prosecute the company for operating their railroad under laws which, by rendering such an accident possible, were a constant menace to the safety of the public.

The case in question was a head-on collision which occurred last year on the Grand Trunk Railroad. The engines, very close together, and the conductor of the train with which it had collided, responsible for the accident, and in the subsequent trial the defendants were charged with the death of the employees who were killed, and also with the violation of the rules of the company. The jury found them guilty on the second plea. The judge then made a statement that the conductor had worked overtime, and sentenced him to three years' imprisonment. In imposing sentence he said that, if the accident were the fault of the rules and regulations of the railway company, then terrible was the guilt those responsible for such rules and regulations. "Much of the slaughter," he said, "was due to the carelessness of those who are entrusted with the carrying out of these rules and regulations, and if you and your fellow trainmen had used even ordinary care, the three men now lying in the grave as the result of your act might now be happy and useful citizens." It was shown that the conductor had been working from nineteen to twenty hours a day, for which he received about forty dollars a week, but that these long hours were optional, and that he was entitled, under the rules, to a rest of eight hours.

Referring on the other hand, to the restlessness of the railroad company, the judge said: "To my mind the persons who even permitted you to work from nineteen to twenty hours a day, five days of the week, were guilty of a gross wrong, the persons who made the rules and regulations under which this was possible are themselves almost as guilty, morally, perhaps legally, as yourself in the death of these three victims. I shall cause to be sent to the Crown attorney a copy of the proceedings of this trial, with the recommendation that all proper investigations be made, and that the persons responsible, no matter what their position may be, be proceeded against so far as the criminal law permits."

Although the penalty inflicted in the present case may have been too severe, it cannot be denied that one of the most effective "safety appliances" for the prevention of the unnecessary and shocking list of railroad fatalities and casualties could be found in the swift and impartial action of the law, in every case where the death or injury of passengers or employees can be shown to be the result of faulty regulations on the part of the company, or inexcusable carelessness on the part of the employees.

POLICE TONING UP THE CITY'S MORALS.

(Calgary Daily News.)

The police have commenced a commendable campaign against disreputable dives in the city. The mounted police have had several cases within the past few days and this morning Magistrate Smith taught a salutary lesson to a number of offenders.

Mrs. Sexton, a teatime wench, in stylish attire, pleaded guilty in a crowded court, to keeping an immoral and disorderly house on the corner of Third Avenue and Fourth St. east. She promised to go out of business, however, and stepped down to make arrangements for the transfer of $25 and costs to the sergeant in waiting outside.

Mrs. Northcote, of comely figure, flowing golden locks and rosy cheeks, also pleaded guilty to being an inmate of the previous witness' premises, and handed over $15 and costs. She is leaving town shortly.

Mrs. M. Brown, of most ample proportions, sent stepped up with a promise and pleaded guilty to a similar charge to the last. Another $15 and costs was added to the city's swollen coffers.

Four well known young men all pleaded guilty to a charge of frequenting a disorderly house and were fined $10 and costs each. Another frequenter of a disorderly house in answer to the charge, said he had been over the river with some friends and in the way home some of them wanted a match. With sympathetic impulse he said he knew where they could get a match. He didn't know what kind of a place he was going in, and they were only in a few minutes when the sergeant came in and found them there.

Chief English said they were these slow burning matches, eight day matches, they got. Result, $10 and costs.

James Kenny, who was drunk yesterday, said, came down to the city hall in state (not a very creditable state) on a carriage, was fined the usual $5.

John Hamilton again put in an appearance to look up old friends at the Hotel Beulah yesterday, and the magistrate was obliged to caution him that a future visit would result in seven days, without the option.

Moses Brown, also an old timer and acquainted pretty well with the customs of the law, was back again for being drunk. He said "white man with black mustache gave him whiff," and threatened to kill him if he did not drink it, and sent the action to the word, the white man started in by "kicking him right here," and Moses showed where, Moses was apportioned $5 or fourteen days.

As there seemed much possibility of him getting drunk again, he will be kept out of harm's way. Frank Holston, an employee of Messrs. Alfred & McLean, proprietors of the Beulah Hotel stable, was accused of supplying a hack for the conveyance of disreputable women on Saturday, June 22. Holston said he delivered the rig over to two women at the Bon Ton Cafe.

Officer Douglas testified that he saw the defendant driving the two women on Saturday evening last. He pleaded ignorance of the fact that the "ladies" were of the class reviled. The case was adjourned till Friday.

Hebrews in Abyssinia With all Racial Characteristics.

Most interesting facts regarding a strange Abyssinian Hebrew race are supplied by Pastor Roden, the Spanish missionary who has come to Berlin to revise the existing, aboriginal version of the Bible on behalf of the British Foreign Bible Society.

"Abyssinian Hebrews are the dark-skinned descendants of the original children of Israel," said Mr. Roden, "and are the most unique racial phenomenon that Africa presents. Although colored, they possess all the national Hebrew characteristics, facial peculiarities, and their economic tendencies. They are regarded contemptuously by the Abyssinians proper because they lack the Abyssinian warlike qualities and are prone to follow exclusively trade pursuits."

"It is curious, however, that although adhering to the Jewish religion in every particular, they have totally forgotten the Hebrew language and never show any inclination to affiliate themselves with Hebrews in any other part of the world. So far as I know none of them have ever emigrated. They have no sympathy whatever with the Zionist movement for the establishment of an independent Jewish State in Palestine."

Pastor Roden declares missionary life in Abyssinia presents peculiar difficulties. There is not only a great prejudice against any other country of the East, but the religious cults of Abyssinia are difficult to reform, for the reason that they do not acknowledge that they are heathen. Their form of worship is, in the opinion of Christianity that have come down from the fourth century, and have been built to an unrecognizable extent under outer layers of Mohammedanism and forms of idolatry.

Pastor Roden asserts that the progressive Emperor Menelik is personally well disposed toward missionaries, and is a fervent his own way would permit them to establish considerable latitude, but the "Abyssinian" or Abyssinian Pope exercises a powerful influence over his Majesty and insists that missionaries remain in diaphanous.

Germany's friendly advances to Abyssinia have, according to Pastor Roden, been heartily welcomed. The Kaiser's gifts of automobiles and German beer-making machinery have created great popular satisfaction. Arrangements are now pending for a number of German mechanics and artisans representing the various trades to settle in Menelik's domain for the purpose of teaching the natives industrial arts.

THE NEED OF ECONOMY (Albertina.)

The political economists of the present seem to agree that the present stringency is caused by the increased extravagance of the people. They believe that there is too much needless waste, too much is being thrown away, spoiled and burned up. There is no desire to lower the standard of living, but there is great need to check the needless, needless waste of commodities, this over indulgence in costly luxuries.

The present money stringency is caused by the death of capital and capital is created by saving. In no part of the world is extravagance so marked as in North America. In no part of Canada is extravagance so apparent, in comparison to the conditions of the people as in Alberta. Prof. Mavor deals with this subject in the last issue of the Toronto Financial Post. He concludes that if J. J. Hill is right in saying that the American railways will need five thousand million dollars for railway extensions in the next five years, the Americans will have to provide these millions by a course of plain living.

The question is, how are the people to be persuaded to adopt a more economical standard of living?

Mrs. Fiske In Edmonton.

Typical New York people of the inner circles of metropolitan society are the persons represented in Mrs. Fiske's new play, "The New York Idea" in which this distinguished actress will appear at the Thistle Rink, Edmonton, July 2. Langdon Mitchell who wrote this present day satire, knows these people well. He has put a vision or more of them into his play. They are composite rather than individual types. Cynthia Karlake, the heroine, is a young woman of exceeding brilliancy, charm and vivacity. Brought up with more thought for the frivolities than the realities of life, it is not surprising that she should have sought a South Dakota divorce, and then occasioned the complications that make up Mrs. Mitchell's clever plot. She loves horses, and horse races and motor-cars and golfy times generally. Her thoughts have been mostly of them. At heart, though, she is genuine and true, which makes the happy ending of the play a logical ending as well. Jack Karlake, Cynthia's husband, is a high-hearted energetic lawyer, with an optimistic spirit that is "cherry in spite of reverses." He has a racing stable to divide attention with his practice and impair his fortune. Also a yacht and other luxuries. Around these central figures move a variety of contrasting characters. One is a ponderous, long-winded judge, who carries the dignity of the bench into his drawing room. Another is a humor, quick-witted English-born woman, quite different from the stolid, stuffy Britisher who is on the stage. Another a fashionable, fashionable, another an utterly ridiculous, short-dressed, in a word of another husband. Then there are various representatives of an exclusive old Colonial family, and numerous other characters who take an active part in the plot. They are all real people, though their existence is as artificial as that of real people of CANADA'S FULL GROWN INDUSTRIES.

(The Globe.)

The official returns of Canadian development in manufacturing industries during the last five years must be highly gratifying, not only to the manufacturers as a class and an organization, but to all classes and interests in the Dominion. A general increase of about 83 per cent. in the period covered by the comparative figures of the report shows that manufacturing enterprise has taken full advantage of the excellent opportunities provided by our general development, abundant natural wealth and reasonable fiscal policy. This success may be doubly gratifying to the Liberal statesmen, who, in the face of predictions of disaster and in spite of persistent attacks and condemnations by those who did not recognize the favors thrust upon them, relieved the pressure of extreme protection and provided opportunities for the untampered play of national economic forces. It is impossible to say how far the development of the past few years is due to the relief afforded by the British preference and the general revision in which the extreme obstructive features of the National Policy were eliminated. It is certain that Canada has always possessed the elements of abundant success in natural wealth, productive soil, and in an active, enterprising, and industrious people. This fact sustains the belief that the long and discouraging period of comparative stagnation was due to the obstruction of unwise laws. The Dominion's need was not so much the construction of an elaborate fiscal policy as relief from the burdensome obstructions that had grown up under the easy policy of compensating each malcontent at the expense of all other citizens. In the finely adjusted balance of industrial competition a comparatively small economic burden may mean the difference between success and failure, and this side tends to show the possibilities of the far-reaching results from a comparatively small measure of economic relief.

The entire output of our manufacturing industries has increased from $481,058,375 in 1900 to $715,055,962 in 1905, a gain of $234,000,000. This growth shows that Canadian industry is no longer in a state of infancy, but has reached full manhood, and is equipped for the life of life. It also goes to show that the policy of pumping would have tended to perpetuate the infantile condition. A policy calculated to enable the industries to survive by their own strength and their own merits is incomparably preferable to one likely to perpetuate a condition of dependence. The Liberal policy has given Canadian industries a chance to show and to learn their strength. It has relieved them of unnecessary burdens, and in the opportunities which have come with this relief they have learned their ability to survive and prosper without a weakening measure of artificial aid. Our leading industries have safely passed the troublesome and uncertain period of infancy. Their phenomenal success is not the result of unhealthy forcing, but of natural and substantial growth. With a careful avoidance of past mistakes and a firm refusal to burden aid for the help of any, this gratifying process should continue into the indefinite future, and every step in advance should be made a preparation for further progress.
